- Distribution of Christian literature.

"I Lived A Gangster's Lifestyle."

Rocco Morelli thought he was on the fast track to success.

He was a well-known businessman. State Constable. Notary Public. Licensed Private Detective. Rising politician. Rocco Morelli was on the fast track to success. Yet Rocco had another side. Underworld connections. Nightclubs. Gambling. He was living a playboy, gangster lifestyle. "I thought I had arrived," Rocco says. But in 1987, he was arrested as an alleged drug associate, linked to organized crime figures—and was removed from public office.

Just before his sentencing, Rocco attended a Full-Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship meeting where Steve Totin was speaking. Steve's testimony convicted him. "I knew that if he could change, the Lord could change me, too," Rocco remembers. After the meeting, Rocco asked Steve for prayer, and Steve led him to the Lord. Rocco was also baptized in the Holy Spirit.

At that moment, the Lord told Steve, "You and Rocco are going to be together a long time." Steve responded, "He's going to prison—I'm not going there!"

Your support for Cornerstone TeleVision's prison outreach is impacting lives like Rocco Morelli's — who is now in full-time ministry.

But the Lord had other plans. Steve began to visit Rocco, pray with him, take his collect phone calls, bring him Christian literature. Then, Cornerstone TeleVision decided to take collect calls from other prisoners, and the Prison Ministry was born!

When Rocco was released, he started ministering to others as a Cornerstone TeleVision prayer partner! Now, Rocco Morelli is in full-time ministry, with an evangelism and prison ministry of his own.

When you impact one life, you impact many, as the chain reaction of God's grace reaches out in a multitude of directions. Today, you are impacting many "Rocco Morellis" through the Cornerstone TeleVision prison ministry—reaching the spiritually hardened and hopeless with the transforming power of Jesus Christ. ♦
